

Craig Reynolds, Oncologist, Florida Cancer Specialists and Research Institute, Member of I-O ICON

While completing his Fellowship in Oncology/Hematology, Dr. Craig Reynolds also worked as an instructor in Medicine and Hematology/Oncology at Washington University School of Medicine and as a staff physician at John Cochran VA Hospital in St. Louis, MO. In 1993, he moved to Ocala, FL and began his practice at the Ocala Oncology Center, where he later served as Director of Research from 2008 to 2014. During his distinguished career, Dr. Reynolds has been recognized with numerous awards and acknowledgments and has provided physician leadership on various committees and advisory boards; he currently serves on the Education Committee of the American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO), the Community Practice Committee of the International Association for the Study of Lung Cancer and the Thoracic Oncology Workgroup of Ocala Regional Medical Center, where he is also a faculty member for house staff training programs. A recognized leader in clinical research, Dr. Reynolds has been an invited speaker at several national and regional conferences and his research has been extensively published in such prestigious journals as Blood, Cancer, Journal of Clinical Oncology and Journal of Thoracic Oncology.