

Dennis Rodriguez, Chief City Executive, Los Angeles
Center of Competence, Americas
Siemens Corporation

Appointed by the Americas Cities Center of Competence as City Account Manager for Los Angeles in October, 2012, Dennis is responsible for establishing Siemens strategy for the Greater Los Angeles Area. As the lead City executive, Dennis will build the regional Siemens teams, establish relationships with key city and regional decision makers, and drive Siemens solutions into the respective markets.

The Cities Center of Competence (CoC) is dedicated to understanding the key challenges facing cities as they strive for economic growth and long term prosperity. The CoC strives to leverage the company's global experience and deep portfolio of infrastructure solutions to help cities create and implement plans for the future.

Prior to joining Siemens, Dennis worked for Kindel Gagan, a public affairs and lobbying firm where he delivered client services related to public affairs advocacy, lobbying, government contracting, transportation, land use and real estate entitlements, communications and community outreach. Dennis' policy expertise, and tenure working at Los Angeles City Hall, assisted him in this regard.

As Economic Development Deputy for LA City Councilmember Bernard Parks from 2003 to 2011, Dennis was responsible for overseeing policy related items focused on the issues of planning, environmental issues, transportation, economic/community development, land-use, design, public finance and associated legislative efforts. Among the major projects he oversaw on behalf of Councilmember Parks were the USC Master Plan, Expo Light Rail Phase I, Crenshaw Light Rail, Baldwin Hills Crenshaw Plaza, Fresh and Easy Neighborhood Market and the Baldwin Hills Oil Field.

Dennis is a graduate of California State University of Northridge and received his Juris Doctorate from University of Notre Dame Law School. Active in his community, he serves on the Board of Directors for the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce, the Friends of Expo Center, the LA City Department of Recreation and Parks as well as the Los Angeles Neighborhood Initiative.
